NEW HALL AT ENTWISTLE

Department of Interior Sees Need for Establishing Accommodation for Settlers
North and West of Edmonton

Yes, they are beginning to come. The rush of immigrants is now being felt, although the first of April is still some distance off. No great influx has been expected for March, but the Immigration Hall on First street reports that accommodation has well-nigh reached the limit. The March report will show a great increase in the immigration over last year, while the month of April promises to be exceptionally brisk. Some twenty people registered at the hall yesterday giving such addresses as Stillwater, Oklahoma, Gavford and Wondergilt, Michigan, and De Grey, South Dakota. The party who left their Oklahoma home were colored people, who will proceed to the negro settlement at Lobstick Lake.

On Thursday morning Jelle Krynen, government land agent, will strike out north-west with the first band of land seekers. The party are English and Americans and are in search of homesteads. The early departure of the land guide is made necessary by the fact that the immigrants are here and must be taken to the front to make room for others to follow.

Mr. Webster, the local immigration officer, informs The Capital that he is now engaged in outfitting a new immigration hall at Entwistle, which is the first hall west of Edmonton. The hall will accommodate from 35 to 40 people, and will be furnished with beds and kitchen utensils at a cost of $500. All the supplies will be shipped to Entwistle this week. Mr. Webster also stated that it may be seen fit to open an immigration hall at Athabasca Landing and probably at other points where the rush of settlers will be most felt this year.

DEATH RESULT OF GUN SHOT WOUND

James Morris, Well-Known Edmonton
Man, Met with Fatal Accident
—Funeral on Thursday

A very sad accident took place yesterday afternoon, some ten miles west of the city on the Stony Plain road, from the result of which James Morris, read estate broker died, at 5 o'clock this morning in the Misericordia hospital.

Mr. Morris, along with a client named Clark, had driven out to the Stony Plain district yesterday afternoon to inspect some farm property, and on the return trip they noticed a coyote crossing the road in front of them. Clark, seizing a double-barreled shot-gun, which had been in the rig, jumped out in the hopes of killing the animal. In some unaccountable manner the weapon went off, and the entire load of shot whirled Morris's thigh.

The injured man was immediately placed in the rig and hurried to the General Hospital, where Dr. McGillivray performed an operation. Afterwards he was taken to the Misericordia Hospital. The shock was too much for his system to stand and Mr. Morris passed away early this morning.

Neither of the members of the party were able to give any details as to how the accident happened. It is believed that in getting out of the rig, the hammer of the gun caught on something and being released the weapon was discharged, giving the unfortunate young man a ghastly wound.

James Morris was well known in Edmonton and a general favorite. Always a patron of clean sport, he was a valued member of the Edmonton hockey club executive. It was largely owing to the strenuous efforts that the hockey team was able to make the trip east this winter.

Deceased, who was the son of David Morris, Fraser, Creme, wife and four children to mourn loss. John and Percy Morris, of Edmonton, are brothers and W. W. Morris, of Seattle, is also a brother. Two sisters are Jessie and Ethel Morris of this city.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at three o'clock from the parents' home on Fraser avenue. It will be a Masonic burial with military honors.

A. R. & I. CO. WINS IMPORTANT CASE

Judgment Given Down by Supreme Court in Banc this Morning—Other Cases Set for Hearing.

The spring sittings of the Supreme Court in banc opened this morning with 11 at Chief Justice Sifton, and Hon. Justices Harvey, Stewart, Beck and Scott on the bench.

One judgment was handed down this morning, in the case of the King vs. the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Co. Mr. Justice Harvey read his judgment dismissing the case, and Chief Justice Sifton concurred with him. Hon. Justices Stewart and Beck also read judgments dismissing the case.

The appeal was in the form of a state case, in which the Attorney-General's department contended that in building their canals the company would obstruct road allowances, and that they should therefore be compelled to build bridges. The dismissal of the case practically means an injunction was given against the Attorney-General's department. The case will now be appealed to the Privy Council.

The following cases have been set for hearing this afternoon: Robt. Ward vs. John Serrell, and Patrick Mehan vs. Raynold Pandell. The case of Wm. Head, vs. Ciffin & Davis, is on for tomorrow, and the cases of Geo. A. Lavis vs. Minnie Radin, and W. P. Torrey and Eva L. Vant vs. John J. Lait, have been set over to the June sitting of the court in Calgary.

COMMISSION NOW IN SIGHT

Premier Forthall Insurgents by Giving
Notice of Resolution to Appoint Three Judges

WILL SIFT A. & G.W.R. DEAL

Names Mentioned are Judges Scott, Beck and Harvey.—Inquiry Will Re-open
the Whole Railway Question

A resolution by Premier Rutherford, moving the appointment of a judicial commission to investigate the Alberta and Great Waterways deal, an emphatic denial by Mr. Boyle of the story alleging that he had attempted to influence the members from St. Eder and St. Albert to vote against the government by promising them immunity from the license department if he became Attorney-General, a tilt between the premier and Mr. Bennett regarding the files of the Attorney-General's department, and a general scolding of the newspapers, were the features of yesterday's session of the legislature.

The premier's resolution is much along the same lines as that which Mr. Geo. Smith, Camrose, gave notice of last Friday, except in the fact that in his resolution, Mr. Rutherford names his commission, viz: Hon. Justices Scott, Harvey and Beck. This forestalls Mr. Smith's resolution, as it is believed that the insurgents wished to have Chief Justice Sifton handle the investigation.

The premier's resolution reads as follows:

"Whereas it is advisable in the public interest that inquiry should be made for the purpose of ascertaining whether any, and if any, which officer or officers of the government or members of the legislature of the province were or are pecuniarily interested either directly or indirectly by themselves or through others, in the making of or catering into a certain contract between the government and the province and the Alberta and Great Waterways railway, whereby guaranteeing by the province of the securities of said company or in the proceeds of or the amount realized from the disposition or sale of the said debentures;

"Be it resolved that the Lieutenant-Governor in Council be requested to appoint a commission under the provisions of the act respecting inquiries concerning public matters, with all the powers and authorities in section 2 of the said act set out, consisting of Hon. Justices Scott, Harvey and Beck, and Hon. Justice Beck, three of the justices of the supreme court of Alberta, to enquire into the negotiations, proceedings and the circumstances of the passing of the act to provide for the said railway, and to report thereon to the lieutenant-governor in council, in respect of the matters herein before recited, for the information of the legislature."

The reading of the resolution was greeted with prolonged applause from the government benches. It will come up for discussion on Wednesday next. When Mr. Boyle's motion in regard to the stripping of the files was reached on the order paper, he requested that it be held over until tomorrow. Mr. Bennett suggested that it might be held until Thursday if the premier's resolution was while consideration of the matter of the files. "For," said Mr. Bennett, "the files on the table are not complete, and the matter should be looked into."

"Mr. Speaker," interrupted the premier, "I have stated before on the floor of this house while consideration of this matter have been brought down I say it again and I mean it."

"I am bound by the rules of this house to accept the statement of the premier," replied Mr. Bennett, "but I am bound to inform the premier that decisions were made in other departments on those files as having been received by one of the departments are not there, and have not been brought down. Now, I hope that

GRANDSTAND FOR 6,000 PEOPLE

Exhibitions Directors Decide on Fine
Building at Exhibition Grounds
For This Year

The semi-monthly meeting of the Edmonton exhibition directors was held last evening. President A. R. Campbell was in the chair and there were twenty-one directors present. Tenders for printing the price lists were opened and the Keystone Press received the contract. The contract for supplying the fair with 25 tons of coal was given to C. C. Markham & Co.

The grounds committee reported they were advertising for tenders for the purchase of buildings on the old ground. The following money has been expended. Grading and levelling $24,532.22. Brushing and grubbing $2,478.43. Revenue from the sale of wood $712.36.

The race track is two thirds completed. The trees and stumps are all removed from the grounds. On the outside park the underbrushing is completed. There are 25,085 feet of lumber on the grounds for fencing, etc. Also 860 yards of gravel and 800 yards of cinders and burnt clay for road-making. There are 566 feet of lumber on hand for the pick fence. Already $1,179 has been expended on underbrushing the park.

It was decided to put up the following buildings. Race horse and show horse stables, stable for poultry, poultry house, dog house, sheep and hog pens, cattle stables, superintendent's cottage, house for police and fire and director's office, grand stand with accommodation of 6,000 and bleachers, judges' stand and attraction platform. Unloading railroad platform and ships' office. Ticket office, dining hall, paddock and shed.

The main building will not be erected until next fall as the large grand stand will have ample space beneath for general exhibits.

ALL NIGHT SESSION

Commons Sat Until 11.30 in the Morning and Will Remain Far Longer.

OPPOSITION HAS REQUESTS

Hon. Sydney Fisher Said he Never Thought Opposition Had Such a Set of Unreasonable Men

At Ottawa, March 15.—The commons was still in session at 11.30 this morning, and according to the statement of Major Sharpe, Conservative member for North Ontario, will remain in session if necessary until Saturday night, unless the opposition request for the production of the plans of the St. Lawrence Transmission Company's bill is granted. Trenchard, Liberal member for Assiniboia, said he did not want to block the progress of the bill but he wanted to see the plans of the bill which had been denied to the committee when the bill was before it. Fielding retorted that if the Commons reported the preamble and left other clauses for future consideration, the house would be satisfied. Geo. Taylor disagreed with this, and a heated talk continued. There was an influx of members refreshed by a night's sleep, among them being Hon. Fisher, who, on being asked by Good-eyes, member for Kootenay, what he thought of the matter in dispute, replied, "I never knew there was such a set of unreasonable men on the opposition side of the house."

This was greeted by a roar of cheer from the opposition. Dr. Reid, of Grenville, remarking that Fisher should have been in the house all night instead of sleeping in his bed.

25,000 FIREMEN OUT ON STRIKE

Controversy Affects 47 Lines Operating West and 150,000 Miles of Road

MEN WILL NOT ARBITRATE

Points in Dispute are Increase of 12-1/2
Per Cent. in Wages and Technical Questions—Situation Serious.

Chicago, March 15.—At midnight, W. S. Carter, president of the brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen's men, announced that a strike of 25,000 firemen on practically all the western roads had been called. "The strike has been called, that much is certain," said Mr. Carter. "It means that not only 25,000 firemen, members of one union, will go out, but perhaps that many more employees will be thrown out in consequence. We gave our ultimatum to the railroads that the men had voted to strike and we were prepared to call one unless we gain an arbitration of all questions in dispute. The railroads refused to arbitrate anything but the wages question. As we decided it was useless to parley further with the railroad managers. We adopted the resolution, calling the strike. Owing to the lateness of the hour and in order that men would not go out in confusion, and not knowing the true state of affairs we agreed to await until today before telegraphing the order."

"Will the men quit work tomorrow?" Mr. Carter was asked. "The men will quit work within twenty-four hours after the order is issued," he replied. "The railroads issued a statement declaring that to prevent a strike they would, if necessary, appeal to authorities at Washington. The controversy which has been under discussion for more than six weeks involves 47 railroads operating west, north and south of Chicago and embracing about 150,000 miles of railroads. It would tie every freight and passenger train between Chicago and the Pacific coast. The points in dispute are: Increase in wages demanded which union officers say will amount to about 12 1/2 per cent, but which the railways assert would amount to 25 1/2 per cent; the right of the union to send a representative when a fireman has been promoted to an engineering or to another capacity over which the union claims jurisdiction; questions of seniority or promotion of new men over old time employees.

A railroad managers committee composed of ten of the general managers of western railroads and headed by W. C. Nixon, general manager of St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, already had agreed to submit the wage question to arbitration under the Erdman Act, but had declined to arbitrate on the grounds that the men were matters of official authority and discipline could not be arbitrated. The railroads yesterday informed Mr. Carter that, notwithstanding the strike possibly, they were determined to send out on continuing to arbitrate anything but the wages question. They announced that if all wage demands were granted other unions would soon demand similar increase and that this would virtually bankrupt the roads.

"We have figured it out, and it would mean a deficit of more than 4 per cent. per annum to every road granting the increase," said O. T. Dixon, assistant to the president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy.

THE COMMISSION OF JUDGES

The government has moved for the appointment of a judicial commission, composed of Justices Scott, Harvey and Beck, to enquire into the circumstances surrounding the making of the A. & G. W. agreement.

To the Capital the transaction has all along appeared a perfectly reasonable one. That it should have been subjected to so much criticism, that there should have been so many mysterious suggestions in connection with it and that feature, is explained almost wholly by conditions with which the agreement itself had nothing to do. There were a number of stray politicians who were intent on making political capital against the administration, and against some of its individual members in particular. There is nothing like a railway bargain to stir the public up over. The A. & G. W. lent itself unusually well to a campaign of misrepresentation, and it has been worked to a finish. But when a person analyzes the bargain and compares it with those which have been made between railway corporations and governments at other times and places, he will find that seldom has an enterprise, fraught with such consequence, been floated upon the public being called upon to aid to so small an extent. One would think that to hear some people talk that it was the easiest thing in the world to get people to build railroads. They have to be most substantially aided even when they pass through well-settled districts and close to existing lines. The G.T.P. and the C.N.R. are now building to Calgary, under a provincial guarantee of $1,500 a mile, within a few miles of one another and a few miles of a line that has been in existence twenty years. What we cannot understand is, how people can expect that when enterprises such as these have to receive the aid they do, a company can be expected to penetrate a wholly new and unsettled country, take all the risk attendant on the move, and undergo the increased expense which the nature of the venture entails, with one c'clock their generous public assistance.

The three judges selected in the present instance are all men in whom we can have the utmost confidence, and provided the press shows some sense of responsibility in the treatment of the proceedings, these should serve an excellent purpose in clearing up what to the average citizen has become a woefully tangled subject.

SWEDES HAND OUT ROUGH TREATMENT

Driver of Hark Gets Into Altercation
With Three Whom He Was Driving out of the City

Police headquarters this morning resembled the emergency ward in a hospital more than it did a police station. Two badly battered men were having their injuries dressed by Dr. J. McDonald, and a third lie in the public hospital suffering from numerous bruises and flesh wounds. The bruises are the result of a serious assault upon a liverrman, and the consequent fight that ensued about one o'clock this morning.

As far as the particulars could be learned today, three Swedes, San Norman, San Anderson and another whose name is not known, ordered a cab from the Castle Livery at a late hour last night. After driving out of the city for some little distance, the occupants of the hack got into some sort of a dispute with William C. Campbell, the driver. He was apparently pulled from his seat and a fierce fight ensued. The cab was smashed up. Norman got a severe kick in the shoulder and had his nose broken, and Campbell's nose was also smashed to a pulp. Anderson had his head badly cut by being thrown against a lamppost fence at the side of the road.

Word of the row was finally telephoned into the city, and Robt. Derry of the Castle Livery was despatched to bring in the cab and Campbell. When the city was reached Campbell was taken to the hospital, but it was not until this morning that J. Campbell, the proprietor of the livery stable had Norman and Anderson placed under custody on a charge of assault. The third Swede has not been caught yet. It is claimed he was flourishing a revolver.

CORINTHIANS TO PLAY HERE

The Greatest Team of Association Football Players will be Seen in Edmonton in August

It never rains but it pours. We had just received notification of the impending trip of a picked team of Oxford and Cambridge Rugby football players to Edmonton when along comes news of another team.

This time it is the famous Corinthians, foremost exponents of association football in the world. They are making a tour of Canada and the U. S. and will play a game in Edmonton.

G. A. Parker, who will have charge of the tour, was at the Windsor yesterday and when seen by the Capital, stated that he had practically completed arrangements for a game here towards the end of August. A picked team will be selected from the City League and the make-up will be decided about two weeks before the date set. This will give ample opportunity for practicing team play and the Edmonton boys should be able to put up a strong argument against their noted competitors.

A committee will be formed here to make final arrangements such as picking the team and bringing in excursion from outside points. The game will be played at the baseball park.

Mr. Parker has been connected with the Corinthians for a number of years and says that they are a real classy aggregation. Four years ago they toured Eastern Canada and the U. S. and won through the trip without a defeat. Mr. Parker managed this trip and also two similar tours of South Africa.

There are seven internationals on the team and we hope in the course of a week to have the entire personnel of their careers.

A GOOD BOUT FOR CALGARY

Jimmie Potts and Billy Morse Will Fight in the Southern City on Good Friday

The Poirnpoint Athletic Club will hold a big boxing bout in Calgary on Good Friday. Jimmy Potts (well known in Edmonton) will be one of the gladiators and his opponent will be Billy Morse of Miles City.

Potts writes from Milwaukee that on March 8th, he fought Joe Walcott who was brought to the Brewery City by Jack Johnson. The Barbados Nigger offered to knock Jimmy cold in rounds, but though he outweighed Potts by 20 pounds, Jimmy fisted the "nigger."

There will probably be a few Edmonton sports at the ring-side in Calgary on Good Friday.

When He Yells, Play Ball!

Here is a pretty little thing, entitled, "A Flea to the Weather Man":

You may sing all your dope about winter;

You may sing about skating and snow;

You may rave over the sleigh bells' jingle,

You may talk of how winds do blow;

But the season when life is worth living

Is nothing winter nor fall;

The real proper time for Thanksgiving

Is just when "His Umphs" yells "Play Ball!"

So give us a new brand of weather—

Cut out all this ice and this snow;

Just give us the bloom on the heather

At turning the spring valve you're slow;

Just turn on the sunshine, now, mister;

Please heed this one sad, plaintive call.

Just let the sun sizzle and blister;

Let's have out, get busy, "Play Ball!"

SANDWICH COLFERS POOR SPORTS

Walter J. Travis, Who Won the Championship of England in '04 Got Some Shabby Treatment

Walter J. Travis tells the detailed story of how he won the British championship of 1904 at Sandwich in the March issue of the American Golfer. It is a new and interesting contribution to our golfing literature. It had been known that Travis was not received with any sociability by the championship managers at Sandwich, but it had not been known he could not obtain a capable caddy or that other Americans there had been smacked. On the latter point Travis writes:

"All through the atmosphere at Sandwich had been markedly frigid, and in sharp contrast to that of three years before when I was over there. On both occasions I had happened to be the American amateur champion. The only explanation which suggested itself was that when we were there before we were not contestants. Then lots of attentions were showered upon us, as at all other courses we visited."

"Could we now get any of the big men to play against us in practice? No! For the most part we had to flock together, inside and outside, and not a finger was lifted nor a single step taken by a soul to make the game the uncomfortable feeling that we were pariahs."

"Why, I couldn't even get a locker! My story had to be done in a common hallway and the clubs left in the professionals' shop."

"What happened to Judge Russell? The Judge at that time was president of the Metropolitan Golf Association and also the Garden City Golf Club. He came over from the Continent specially to see the play for a couple of days. He was not allowed to set his foot inside the clubhouse door until he had paid a sovereign or a half sovereign, one or the other."

"When the Oxford and Cambridge team was over here in 1903 Judge Russell paid out of his own pocket $25 per head for each member of the team for tickets to visit the yacht race, and he had three members as guests at his summer home at Southampton during the special tournament arranged by the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club for the Oxford and Cambridge team."

"During the dinner at the Bell Hotel the evening of the Judge's arrival, he asked if any member of the Oxford and Cambridge team were present. Two, seated at an adjoining table, were pointed out, one of whom had been staying with him at Southampton. A perfunctory wave of the hand on the part of the latter was the only response. There were other members of the Oxford and Cambridge team at the championship, but not a single thing was done by any of them at any time in return for his many genteel courtesies. And the same remarks apply with equal force in the case of James L. Taylor, who did so much for the visiting team at Manchester, Vt. If he should ever go across he must certainly look them up two or three said as they presented their cards, and they would try and do their best to reciprocate."

"Mr. Taylor's cards on arrival on the other side were never acknowledged and he was practically cut dead at Sandwich."

"At the conclusion of the championship when it was learned that I was going to take the cup across Norman Hunter, one of the members of the Oxford and Cambridge Golf Society, gratuitously remarked, 'Umph! we'll never see that again! You needn't worry,' replied W. W. Burton, 'we've managed to take pretty good care of the American's Cup for a good many years.'"

"If there had been any lukewarmness on the part of the Sandwich people this was more than compensated for by the friendly attitude of the Cinque Ports Golf Club at Deal, right next door to Sandwich. A dinner was given to the 'foreign invaders' at the invitation of James Leslie Wanklyn, M.P., captain of the Cinque

MUCH JOY IN OLD KINGSTON

The Frontenacs of that City Win the O.H.A. Junior Championship and the Town Goes Crazy

The final game in the Junior O. H. A. series between Preston and Kingston Frontenacs in the latter town was some contest. Preston went down to the Penitentiary City with a three goal lead and with six minutes to go were still two goals ahead on the total. The Kingston Kids never stopped trying and Davidson, the local captain, took the rubber from in front of his own goal, rushed and scored. Penitentiarius, Brown rushed and beat the Preston goalie with a waist-high shot from the side, tying the score.

More penitentiarius. Time kept flying and the crowd began to see visions of a sudden death game in Toronto to break the tie, when Miller of Kingston, standing unheeded, obliged the net with the winning counter just forty seconds before time. The scene can hardly be imagined.

The Kingston populace simply went dippy and carried their pakey team off the ice. There is talk now of presenting the winners with handsome souvenirs and that surely shows Kingston is happy. It is something out of the ordinary that excites the citizens of the Limestone City to mch.

GUESS AGAIN, CULLY

"We've got the Stanley Cup, but where are the challenges to come from?" is the wail of the Wanderers. Of course they look on Berlin as another name for bluff, and with Winnipeg out of the game and Edmonton laid away for good, it looks as if they might be boiled down and made into spoons to have any intrinsic value. —Toronto Telegram.

San Antonio, Tex., March 12.—Manager Jennings considers his young men in pretty fine condition and is reaching them base running. Hughie has read considerable this winter about base stealing being a lost art and plans to revive it this season. Jennings has a new mode of correcting chronic faults. He keeps a camera, and when a man bats or slides wrongly, snaps him and makes him ashamed of his photograph. Jennings is endeavoring to schedule some sort of a conference with the New York Giants, either for the second team that is now here, or for the first team, that is to arrive in a week or so. McGraw has consented to play some sort of a series at Dallas, where the Giants are working, but Jennings insists that the schedule include an equal number at San Antonio, the "Tigers" training base, to which McGraw has not yet assented.

Looking Backward.

On the night following the Yale-Princeton game last fall, a young man who had shipped and fallen was assisted to his feet by a passerby. "Just a little celebration of victory," the young man explained as he waved a bedraggled bit of orange and black ribbon.

"But Princeton lost," the other told him.

"The young man looked painfully surprised for an instant."

"When did you learn that?" he asked.

"Why, it was on the bulletin board an hour ago," the other said. "Yale won today's game."

"I wash referring," said the young man with great dignity, "to the game of 1903."

RUGBY GAME NEXT SEPTEMBER

A Crack Team Picked From Oxford and Cambridge Universities Will Play Here—Local Team Will Be Strong

There is a probability that a first-class exposition of English Rugby, as she is played, will be given in Edmonton next September.

A team picked from Oxford and Cambridge are desirous of touring, Canada in the fall and Edmonton is one of the cities in the proposed itinerary. On the English team are four internationals, so it is evident a high-class aggregation.

It is extremely likely that Edmonton will give the visitors a game. We have a number of crack English rugby players in our midst, and these combined with the pick of the Eskimos who can quickly pick up the game, will enable us to put a strong side on the field.

Tommy Dylces, the Eskimos' 'terribly full-back,' is a former English rugby player, and a good one, too. Tommy will coach the Edmonton team and promises that it will not disgrace the city.

These are the letters regarding the tour.

Dear Sir—Herewith find enclosed letter from F. V. Stanley, of Oxford University, regarding a prospective trip to Vancouver.

I have been instructed by the Union Committee to get your views on the subject, and as to whether you think it would be practicable. I am also writing to several clubs at the Coast and San Francisco, etc.

You will notice Mr. F. V. Stanley suggests co-operation of the different clubs, and I think that if enough assistance is given by all clubs playing British rugby in this country and the States, they could no doubt be able to guarantee that the trip would be a success.

Your views and feelings on the subject will be appreciated by the Rugby Union Committee of Manitoba. I am

Yours truly,

Barnstow, Goring, Oxon.

January 12th, 1910.

Dear Sir—I am quite surprised that you have never received the letter I wrote you in October last year. Briefly it was this: Someone, either a Mr. R. D. Pinkerton or Mr. R. Elliott, wrote to Rugby Union of England, in which I am a member, asking whether it would be at all possible to have a touring side next year. My secretary gave me the letter and I wrote asking you whether you would care to have a side out consisting of University men (Oxford and Cambridge). I pointed out that it would be nice if several of the leading clubs on your side co-operated and arranged a list of fixtures, also funds. I pointed out that it would be necessary to pay the travelling expenses of the side, but I should think there would be no difficulty in this way, as your gates would probably be good ones. I suggested that you could arrange matches in the districts of Winnipeg, San Francisco, Ottawa and Vancouver, etc. I am sending a similar letter to Mr. R. H. Elliott, Olympic Club, San Francisco. If you think anything might be done you might communicate with him. I am going out to Ceylon on February 4th for a few weeks. Will you let me hear that you have received this letter, telling me whether you think this plan is workable? I don't know how long letters are in transit from you to Naples but I shall be at Naples on Feb. 11th, so I think you should post on or about January 26th. I shall be back in England on March 31st. OTTAWA IS MCGILL'S HOODOO

The Montreal University Seems Unable to Win any Kind of a Game in the Capital.

Ottawa is a hoodoo town for old McGill. The bitter realization was once more forced home to the Montreal students last evening in the sudden death match with Queens. It can practically be stated that upon every occasion when something has been at stake in any athletic contest billed for the Capital the red and white went under.

Twice championship honors have been wrested from their clutches here and each time by Queens. The first instance was the deciding match for the rugby title in 1904. The Presbyterians were ordered to play McGill on Lansdowne Park to settle the tie at the end of the season. McGill has seldom had a stronger fourteen, and wads of long staff were crated up from Montreal to back their favorites.

And the result? Jack Williams dropped a goal from the field, and added a rouge in the first ten minutes, after which neither side scored in fifty minutes of desperate endeavor. Mary Walsh was side partner to Jack and was some factor in the result.

But "Oh, you Ottawa," is the Queens chant. Every time they come they take something away—priced loose the Allan Cup last winter, didn't they? The only team which can claim greater fortune, perhaps, is Toronto "Varsity." They put the Kingstons down and out for the Intercollegiate trophy in a sudden death meeting in 1908.

These are the letters regarding the tour.

Physical Instructor

Edmonton Y.M.C.A.,

Edmonton, Alta.

Dear Sir—Herewith find enclosed letter from F. V. Stanley, of Oxford University, regarding a prospective trip to Vancouver.

I have been instructed by the Union Committee to get your views on the subject, and as to whether you think it would be practicable. I am also writing to several clubs at the Coast and San Francisco, etc.

You will notice Mr. F. V. Stanley suggests co-operation of the different clubs, and I think that if enough assistance is given by all clubs playing British rugby in this country and the States, they could no doubt be able to guarantee that the trip would be a success.

Your views and feelings on the subject will be appreciated by the Rugby Union Committee of Manitoba. I am

Yours truly,

Dear Sir—I am quite surprised that you have never received the letter I wrote you in October last year. Briefly it was this: Someone, either a Mr. R. D. Pinkerton or Mr. R. Elliott, wrote to Rugby Union of England, in which I am a member, asking whether it would be at all possible to have a touring side next year. My secretary gave me the letter and I wrote asking you whether you would care to have a side out consisting of University men (Oxford and Cambridge). I pointed out that it would be nice if several of the leading clubs on your side co-operated and arranged a list of fixtures, also funds. I pointed out that it would be necessary to pay the travelling expenses of the side, but I should think there would be no difficulty in this way, as your gates would probably be good ones. I suggested that you could arrange matches in the districts of Winnipeg, San Francisco, Ottawa and Vancouver, etc. I am sending a similar letter to Mr. R. H. Elliott, Olympic Club, San Francisco. If you think anything might be done you might communicate with him. I am going out to Ceylon on February 4th for a few weeks. Will you let me hear that you have received this letter, telling me whether you think this plan is workable? I don't know how long letters are in transit from you to Naples but I shall be at Naples on Feb. 11th, so I think you should post on or about January 26th. I shall be back in England on March 31st. If I hear from you at Naples, I can forward you another address or I shall be at Suez on my way home on March 19th.

The Cleveland newspapers give glowing and enthusiastic accounts of the assistance Larry Lajoie is to Jim McGuire in the development of the younger members of the squad. It was thought that Larry might sink his tent in his mind, if not openly, over the fact that he who had once been manager had to work as second fiddle to another man, but the Frenchman seems to be as big-souled as he is big-bodied and all the stories agree that he is giving McGuire every assistance in his power and with the utmost cheerfulness. "This speaks well for him and the sport and he deserves congratulations," Thomas S. Rice, in the Washington Times.

Christy Mathewson is working harder this year than at any time since he became a Giant and, if reports are true, he will have the best year of his baseball life. BIG MARATHON ON COAST

St. Yves, Marsh and Dorando Will Race March 18.—Probable Attendance 11

For goodness' sake why don't they let poor old Marathon racing die a peaceful death. For the last three months it has been on its last legs and every moment has seemed the last. Even on the coast where the Guggenheim fiasco led a bad taste, they are talking of another race, and the entries will be three in number, Dorando Pietri, who is all in as a runner; John D. Marsh, billed as "Canada's fastest runner over the long route," and Henri St. Yves, the champion of all Marathons.

Harry Duker is arranging the important details and has all his men at close range. Marsh is in "Prisco," Dorando in Los Angeles and St. Yves in Sacramento. The race will take place in the Imperial Rink, Vancouver, on March 18th.

This race will mark the last appearance on the coast of the big Marathon stars. They are about to go back to the east where the purses are larger and more frequent. As far as we are able to learn no petitions are being circulated in the West asking them to remain. What Meadoms will do to these champions when they do strike New York will be a shame.

MEDICINE HAT WILL STICK

Billy Hamilton Says He Will Have All His old Pennant Winners in Line—League Will Be Fast

Calgary, March 13.—Billy Hamilton manager of the Medicine Hat baseball club, was in the city on Saturday, full of news and enthusiasm for the coming season in connection with the Western Canada baseball league. He is a personal friend of Bill Carney, manager of the Calgary team, and has a high opinion of him as a baseball manager.

Leave it to Carney, he will get a first class team for Calgary," he said, talking about the local manager. He knows everything about baseball and more, knows what is in a player and how to handle him.

Hamilton said there should be lots of rivalry and keen games this summer between the Alberta clubs. He has been watching the dope from Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge, and is of the opinion that these clubs will be very strong.

Regarding his own team, Billy stated that things were o.k. He would want most of his old pennant winning boys back again. So far he had not got Wilson, the hard hitting outfielder of last year's team, but hopes to have him on the lineup when the season opens. His pitching staff and outfield will be the same as last year with a change or two, while he has the hooks on a good first baseman and third base player. Speaking of the league, he is of the opinion that the class of ball this year will be much in advance of last year, both as regards the game and fast plays.

EDMONTON GOLF CLUB ANNUAL

Prospects are Bright for a Successful Season—M. R. Jennings Presents a Handsome Trophy.

The annual meeting of the Edmonton Golf Club was held last evening at the King Edward Hotel, the largest number of members being present since the inception of the club.

In view of the rapid increase in members it was decided to limit the membership to 120 and 60 lady associates, there being at present some 20 men and 30 lady members. As soon as the full number is reached the membership fee for men will be raised to $5, subscription $12 and $1 entrance fee for men and $2 subscription for lady associates.

which incited the "mugging" garden. She was gazing abstractedly into the black night, out of which far away blinked the light in the bungalow. It was the first night in a week that he had missed coming to the chateau. She missed him. She was lonely. He had told her of the meeting that was to be held at the bungalow that night at which he was to be asked to deliver over to Insula's committee the papers, the receipts and the memoranda that he had accumulated during his months of employment in their behalf. She had a feeling of dread—a numb, sweet feeling that she could not explain except that under all of it lay the proud consciousness that he was a man who had courage, a man who was not afraid.

"How silly I am!" she said half aloud in her abstraction.

She turned her gaze away from the blinking light in the hills, a queer, guilty smile on her lips.

Across the garden from where she was paying herself bitterly Lady Depplingham's husband was saying in low, agitated tones to Bobby Browne's wife: "Now, see here, Drusilla, I'm not saying that our—that is, Lady Depplingham and Bobby—are accountable for what has happened, but that doesn't make it any more pleasant. It's of little consequence who is trying to poison us, don't you know, and all that. They wouldn't do it, I'm sure, but somebody is! That's what I mean, d'you see? Lady Dep?"

"I know my husband wouldn't—couldn't do such a thing, Lord Depplingham," came from Drusilla's lips almost as a moan. She was very miserable.

"Of course not, my dear Drusilla," he protested nervously. Then suddenly, as his eye caught what he considered a suspicious movement of Bobby's hand as he placed a card close to Lady Depplingham's fingers: "Domme, I'd rather he wouldn't! But I beg your pardon, Drusilla! It's all perfectly innocent."

"Of course it's innocent!" whispered Drusilla fiercely.

"It's utter nonsense for us to suspect them of—of. Pray don't be so upset, Drusilla. It's all right."

"If you think I am worrying over your wife's harmless affair with my husband you are very much mistaken."

Depplingham was silent for a long time.

"I don't sleep at all these nights," he said at last miserably. She could not feel sorry for him. She could only feel for herself and her sleeping nights. "Drusilla, do you think they want to get rid of us? We're the obstacles, you know. We can't help it, but we are. Somebody put that pill in my tea today. It must have been a servant. It couldn't have been—"

"My husband, sir?"

"Not my wife. You know, Drusilla, she's not that sort. She has a horror of death and—"

"He stopped and wiped his brow pathetically."

"If the servants are trying to poison any of us, Lord Depplingham, it is reasonable to suspect that your wife and my husband are the ones they want to dispose of, not you and me. I don't believe it was poison you found in your tea, but if it was it was intended for one of the boys."

"Well, there's some consolation in that," said Deppy, smiling for the first time.

The sharp rattle of dreams in the distance brought a sudden stop to his lugubrious reflections. Five, a dozen, a score of shots were heard. The blood turned cold in the veins of every one in the garden; faces blanched suddenly, and all voices were hushed. A form of paralysis seized and held them for a full minute.

Then the voice of Britt below broke harshly upon the tense, still air: "Good God! Look! It is the bungalow!"

A bright glow lighted the dark mountain side; a vivid red painted the trees; the smell of burning wood came down with the breeze. Two or three sporadic shots were borne to the ears of those who looked toward the blazing bungalow.

"They're killed Chase!" burst from the stiff lips of Bobby Browne.

CHAPTER XVII.

CHASE COMES FROM THE CLOUDS.

FOR many minutes the watchers in the chateau stared at the burning bungalow, fascinated, petrified. Through the mind of each man ran the sudden, sharp dread that Chase had met death at the hands of his enemies.

Genera felt her heart turn cold. Then something seemed to clutch her by the throat and choke the breath out of her body. Through her brain went words to her that afternoon, "They'll find me ready if they come for trouble," she wondered if he had been ready for them or if they had surprised him! She had heard the shots. Chase could not have fired them all. Was he now lying dead in that blazing— She screamed aloud with the thought of it!

"Can't something be done?" she cried again and again, without taking her gaze from the doomed bungalow. She turned fiercely upon Bobby Browne, his countryman. Afterward she recalled that he stood staring as she had stared, Lady Depplingham clasping his arm with both of her hands. The glances also took in the face of Depplingham. He was looking at his wife, and his eyes were wide and glassy, but not with terror. It may not be too late," again cried the princess. "There are enough of us here to make an effort, no matter how futile. He may be alive and trapped up."

"Wait a minute!" shouted Browne. "He's not the kind to go down with the first rush. We must go to him. We can get there in ten minutes. There! Where are the guns? Are you with us, Depplingham?"

He did not wait for an answer, but dashed out of the garden and down the steps, calling to his wife to follow. "Stop!" shouted Depplingham. "We dare not leave this place! If they have turned against Chase, they are also ready for us. I'm not a coward, Browne. We're needed here, that's all. It's too late to help Chase. They've got him, poor devil! Everybody inside! Get to the guns if possible and cut off the servants' quarters. We must not let them surprise us. Follow me!"

There was wisdom in what he said, and Browne was not slow to see it clearly. With a single penetrating glance at Genera's despairing face, he shook his head gloomily and turned to follow Depplingham, who was hurrying off through the corridor with her ladyship.

"Come!" he called, and the princess, feeling Drusilla's hand grasping her arm, gave one hopeless look at the fire and hastened to obey.

In the grand hallway they came upon Britt and Saunders, white faced and excited. The white servants were clattering down the stairways, filled with alarm, but there was not one of the native attendants in sight. This was ominous enough in itself. The sound of a violent struggle in the lower corridor came to their ears. Loud voices, blows, a single shot, the rushing of feet, the panting of men in fierce combat—and then, even as the whites turned to retreat up the stairway, a crowd of men surged up the stairs from below, headed by Ballo, the major dome.

"Stop, excellencies!" he shouted again and again. Bobby Browne and Depplingham were covering the retreat, prepared to fight to the end for their women, although married. It was the American who first realized that Ballo was not heading an attack upon them. Ballo and a score of his men had refused to join the stabbers and garroters in the plot to assassinate the white people. As a last resort the conspirators contrived to steal into the chateau, hoping to fall upon their victims before Ballo could interpose. The major dome, however, with the wily sagacity of his race, anticipated the move. The two forces met in the

The Daily Capital

SWAMPED!

THAT'S THE CONDITION OF OUR CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT TODAY

Yesterday's Rush Was a Hummer—Hope to Serve all New Subscribers Before the Week Ends—Another Big Vote Today—Two New Members of the "Century Club."

Yesterday was the biggest, busiest day the contest department has had during The Capital's demonstration of its interest in its subscribers. The increased vote offer was the incentive that directed the eager feet of many hustling aggressive candidates toward the contest department in the Norwood Block as late as ten o'clock. In fact, while no one arrived later than the hour stated, it was nearly eleven o'clock when the last contestant departed with a bunch of the "precious blues." Increased votes were the words ringing in the contest man's ears all afternoon and evening. When he finally found time to slip out for a few minutes for a quick lunch he thoughtlessly but naturally ordered a "couple of fried subscribers and a cup of extra votes."

But this is purely incidental. The one big, interesting fact that is submerged in the ocean of detail is that this contest is just a little the greatest and most interesting that has ever been held in Western Canada. The public in general, and the candidates in particular, have awakened to the fact that this is an opportunity of a lifetime. The immense volume of business brought and mailed to the contest department yesterday is a most gratifying indication of the seriousness with which the candidates have taken the work.

The contestants proved conclusively that they realized fully that the best offer of the contest was closing and they showed a spirit and determination which speaks well for their final success. Those who did "their level best" during the contest up to this time are not the ones to flag before the contest is over.

Schedule of Votes Diminished.

Do not fail to read the announcement of the "Cash Club Offer" which is being inaugurated for the remaining days of the contest. While the regular schedule is but half the number of votes given up to this time, by filling in the clubs, it offers a large reward for subscriptions.

You must realize that this is no time to rest on the laurels you may have won during the increased vote days, but that you must keep it up without any relaxation until there is no longer a chance of your rivals profiting by your inaction.

Gather in the Votes.

With the fine weather now prevailing, St. Patrick will, on the 17th, tell us that spring is here. But as it is too early to go out into the fields to gather flowers, the candidates must compromise upon getting into the field to gather subscriptions—and the field is full of them. Every office building or big business house may hold a good many for you. Every little home that you pass by may have all ready and waiting just what you want; namely, a subscription for The Capital.

The Cash Clubs.

In starting out to make the most of the cash clubs, contestants should have their friends pledge a club. Go into the subscription business the same as you would any other under-taking at which you hope to succeed. When you get the maximum club, $30, a certificate for 20,000 votes will be issued at once. At the end of the contest, should you have $20 of a surplus, a certificate for 12,000 will be issued; if the surplus is $10 a special ballot for 5,000 votes is given. It is plain from the above that any candidate turning in, or having a surplus of $10 will secure extra votes. Read the big ad. over and over, and if it is not plain, the contest man will be pleased to explain further. By all means, be sure you thoroughly understand the offer, and then get after the big cash clubs with all "your might."

fact has saturated into the mind of the fine minister."

The Premier (angrily)—"Well, I hope my statement that the documents have all been brought down and laid upon the table of the house, will saturate into the mind of the junior member from Calgary."

"Mr. Bennett—Where are they?"

Premier—"They have been laid on the table."

Mr. Bennett—"Since when? Since the night before last? For four days a week or so ago I listened to the prime minister say to this house that all the documents have been laid upon the table. If it were not for taking the time of this house, I would like to call a halt until I could take those files and show the prime minister letters on those files referring to letters received and which are not there. Then possibly he might understand what I mean. "That which the eye seeth, I knoweth." That is a good Scriptural saying with which probably the first minister is more familiar than I am. I merely want to know if this motion of the premier's is broad enough to bring this subject into consideration."

"Yes, it is," replied the Attorney-General, and the matter closed there. Mr. Boyle stating that he wished his motion to stand until tomorrow night; he had had time to study the premier's resolution.

Mr. Boyle Explains

Before the regular proceedings of the house opened, Mr. Boyle arose to a question of privilege and gave an absolute denial to the story that had appeared in several newspapers to the effect that he had attempted to influence the vote of two members of the house. "When I started out to lay bare this A. & G. W. deal," said Mr. Boyle, "I expected that an effort would be made to despatch my character as expected there would be a good deal of mud-slinging, and expected to get my fill of it."

Mr. Boyle then went on to give what he said were the true facts of the case. He said that he was in the King Edward Hotel the other day when a man by the name of Weir, the secretary of the licensed victuallers association had come to him and said that two hotel men, members of the government party, might easily be induced to vote for the insurgents, as he called them. The hotel men of the province were tired of being held up for cash money by the officials of the attorney general's department. Weir had said that he had once taken a check made out to Deyl and endorsed by him on the back to the attorney general, and shoved it under his nose, but Cross had refused to listen to the complaints against Deyl. Boyle said he had heard rumors of getting something like that, but he had thought it hardly as bad as that. He had heard also that the member for Stettler was going to vote for the insurgents, but he did not believe that either.

"I never asked Weir," said Mr. Boyle, "or any other man, to go to any member of this house with a proposition to influence his vote. Weir never had authority from me to do any such thing. Why this story has been circulated will have to be explained by somebody else."

"It is true that the member for St. Albert met me in the Cecil hotel," he said, "and asked me to talk over some matters with him, but I do not see anything discreditable in that. Nothing at all was said about hotels in any way, and I ask the honorable member from St. Albert if that is not correct?"

Mr. Boudreau got to his feet, and was about to speak when the attorney general protested that Mr. Boyle should not be allowed to cross-examine a member. The speaker allowed Mr. Boyle's question and said Mr. Boudreau could reply later, but he didn't take the opportunity.

Mr. Cross denied that Weir or any other man had come to him with a check for Deyl or any other member of his department. "Perhaps the honorable member from Sturgeon would like an investigation of the story involving his reputation," suggested the attorney-general.

"If any member of this house will state that those stories are true, I will be only too glad to have an investigation," replied Mr. Boyle.

Newspapers Corrected

Mr. Bennett then got up and remarked that too much latitude was given to the newspapers in this province. He referred to two newspapers, and more particularly to the "Optimist," of Calgary, in which the story had originated that he (Bennett) had been given $100,000 by the C. P. R. as largess to influence members. "It is absurd on the face of it," said Mr. Bennett, "but I do not think it is fit or seemly that rumors should be given publication. My colleague and myself have no control over any newspapers as some others have, so we can do nothing, but I trust the first minister will take some action."

Mr. Rutherford stated that if he paid attention to newspaper rumors, he would be speaking to a question of privilege every day. He thought it was up to the speaker to see that decorum was preserved in the house. The following bills received a second reading:

An act respecting punishment of corrupt Practices at Municipal Elections, a Bill to Prevent Priority among Execution Creditors, and an Act respecting Truancy and Compulsory School Attendance.

An Act to Grant Additional Powers to the town of Taber, (Mr. McLean), and an Act to Validate and Confirm Certain Bylaws of the Town of Cardston (Mr. Wood), were given a second reading and sent on to the committee on municipal law. An Act to Incorporate the Young Women's Christian Association of Edmonton, (Mr. Boyle) was also read a second time and comes up for discussion before this whole house.

An Act to Validate Bylaws 53 and 64 of the Town of Camrose (Mr. Smith), and an Act Respecting the Alberta and Saskatchewan Central Railway lines (Mr. Campbell) passed the whole house successfully and are now up for the last reading. Acts respecting the Stately and Gleichen Clubs were laid over until Friday until the intentions of the government regarding club legislation is made known. This legislation, the premier announced, would follow along the lines of the Saskatchewan legislation.

The regular monthly meeting of the Maritime Club will be held this evening in the separate school hall at eight o'clock. After the usual business meeting, Mr. T. B. Bennett, K.C., Calgary, will address the club.

The Most Startling Musical Announcement Ever Made

THE STEINWAY PIANOLA PIANO

Steinway & Sons recently gave their consent to an arrangement with the Aeolian Company for the building of a Steinway player piano.

The new instrument has been placed on the market and is called the STEINWAY PIANOLA PIANO.

For many years the distinguished firm of Steinway & Sons has made a close study of the player situation—the prominence given to this phase of the piano trade making such investigation compulsory on the part of a house that has always been first in keeping its product in advance of the times.

However, Steinway's would not consent to any agreement concerning a player until it was proven beyond doubt that such uniting of the time-honored name of Steinway with that of a player device would add lustre to the Steinway reputation for supremacy.

The announcement of the Steinway Player has already created the most profound interest in musical circles throughout the world, and its unbounded success has been assured from the beginning.

While themselves manufacturers of an extensive line of Pianos, the Aeolian Company have by this uniting of their devices with Steinway Piano placed the approving seal of high piano-trade authority upon the recognized supremacy of the Steinway, since the Steinway Pianola Piano will be the highest type of player offered for sale by this or any other house.

The vast resources of the Steinway house, with its tremendous American and European prestige, stand as a gilt edged security for the perfection of the new instrument.

The Price of the Steinway-Pianola Piano is $1500

MEDICAL CARE OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

Central Alberta Medical Association Make Valuable
Report on Subject

QUALIFICATIONS OF INSPECTOR

Outline of Personal and Professional Attainments and Lines Along Which He Should Pursue His Duties in the Schools

The members of the Central Alberta Medical Association duly assembled in special meeting to consider the matter of medical school inspection have prepared a report being the amended form of the report brought in by the special committee appointed at the February meeting and composed of Drs. Sykes, J. C. Macdonald, Nicholls, Collins and Cruz.

The report is as follows:

- 1.—Value of Medical School Inspection.
- 2.—Qualifications of the Medical Inspector.
- 3.—Duties of the Medical Inspector.
- 4.—Printed Matter for Records and for Free Distribution.
- 5.—Remuneration.

1. Value of Medical School Inspection.

We believe that medical inspection in schools is desirable and necessary, because:

(1) It discovers many physical disorders which seriously interfere with the education of the sufferer. When discovered early these conditions are usually easily treated and cured or removed. If undiscovered or untreated they generally result in permanent damage to the child's health and often shorten his life.

(2) By the early diagnosis of infections and contagious diseases, it protects the well children from those infectious diseases which spread from the sick to the well.

(3) The money and labor expended in medical school inspection adds to the comfort, health and lives of the children; it adds to the effectiveness of the intellectual side of the work—in a word it removes or lessens the obstacles that interfere with the smooth running of the educational machine—it therefore gives every school child a better chance to become a useful citizen of the state.

2. Qualifications of the Medical Inspector.

He should be possessed of many qualifications both personal and professional. He should have wide experience, great tact, large sympathies, and a natural inclination for this class of work. Professionally his education is of importance. A previous experience as a house surgeon in one of the larger hospitals will be of great service, and if he has had an opportunity of becoming acquainted with the practical methods and routine of the special departments concerned with diseases of the eye, ear, nose, throat and skin, he is very much more valuable. A few years of work in private practice would be necessary. If he has had an opportunity of spending a few months or a year in the public health service, so much the better.

3. Duties of the Medical Inspector.

He should instruct all public school teachers regarding physical defects of children, contagious diseases, and the recognition of these conditions. We recommend that booklets similar to the accompanying copy sent by the Massachusetts Board of Education be placed in the hands of every teacher.

The medical school inspector should obtain information regarding the health and physical condition of each and every pupil in attendance whether he gains this information as the result of his own examinations or by confirming the examination forms filled out by the family doctor. He backwardness in any child. His duties should examine into the cause of ties should also comprise the matter of school hygiene, sanitation, ventilation, etc. He should visit each school periodically (weekly, bi-weekly or monthly as may be decided upon), and examine into the condition of those pupils to be examined in a separate room, the presence of the teacher being absolutely necessary and also that of the parent if possible. Such children as are found to be ill are to be referred to the parent with suitable notification and instructions to consult the family doctor. Further, he should examine all absentees on their return to school.

He should give every child a complete physical examination on admission to school and all those pupils at present in attendance should also be physically examined. A printed notice should be sent to the parents notifying them of the introduction of medical inspection into the schools. The result of the examination should be reported on cards furnished by the Board of Education, somewhat similar to the following:

On the reverse side of this form a teeth chart should be printed upon which the Medical Inspector will mark any teeth requiring attention.

4. Printed Matter for Records and for Free Distribution.

We would recommend that blank copies of the above be forwarded to all parents to impress upon them the significance of Medical Inspection and that cards of instruction be distributed amongst the school children.

When certain conditions are found amongst school children, as the following, we suggest that such be excluded from school. Copies of simple directions should be sent to their parents or guardians for home treatment of the children: (a) Polio-myelitis (b) Ringworm (c) Scabies (d) Impetigo contagiosa (e) Incipient or advanced phthisis (consumption; pulmonary, tubercular).

Phthisis or Consumption: This disease causes more cases of sickness and death than any other cause in Alberta. It is very curable in its early stages when a proper diagnosis and prompt treatment almost always promptly restores the sufferer to health and prevents his giving the disease to others. The treatment requires plenty of fresh air and sunlight, abundance of good food, avoiding patent medicines, avoiding any cause that lowers vitality, such as overwork, overstudy, bad ventilation, indigestion, decayed teeth, chilling and late hours. In regard to this dread disease we would urge careful consideration of the advisability of establishing an open-air school (or school-room in each or some of the public school buildings), for tuberculous children and teachers.

Health of Teachers and Other School Workers.

The work of the school-teacher is arduous labor. For its most satisfactory performance it requires an abundance of good health and physical energy. The best interests both of the teachers and of the children demand this. We would therefore recommend that the School Board in engaging any teacher, janitor or other school worker, require a certificate of good health either based on an examination by the Medical School Inspector or confirmed by him.

To the end of efficiency and economy of labor, some card or other system is necessary for the inspector that he can quickly record and dispose of each case so as to notify fully everyone concerned, the object being to attain the highest results with the least possible amount of clerical work. In this respect there is great variance on the part of different cities in which medical inspection is in force. Still they are in the main similar in intent and purpose. With regard to contagious diseases, the cards used in the Department of Public Health may be used by the School Inspector, and those illnesses will be dealt with by the Medical Health Officer. A card system similar to that used in Chicago is commendable; there the Medical Inspector is supplied with a book similar in size and shape to an ordinary cheque book. The leaves of the book are alternately on light and heavy paper for carbon sheets between and are perforated for separation and have stubs similar to the leaves of a cheque book.

5. Remuneration.

Recent careful timing of work done by one of the most skillful examiners in the employ of the New York City Board of Education shows that it took him on an average twelve minutes to make each physical examination. In consideration of this, if school population of some 3,200 pupils would require approximately seven months' work in order to give each pupil a single examination. In addition there must be allowed the time for the routine daily school inspection. In consideration of this, if medical inspection is to be efficient and effective it is clear that an adequate salary must be assigned to the position. We believe that the Medical School Inspector should devote his whole time to his official duties as such and should not engage in general practice and should not prescribe nor treat except as stated above.

We note with pleasure and satisfaction that the Edmonton School Board has adopted medical inspection for schools of the city. This action we heartily commend and endorse.

In conclusion, we realize the more or less incompleteness of these suggestions as the work is largely one of numerous details, yet we trust that the points enumerated and touched upon may be of assistance in the endeavor to place Medical Inspection in the Public Schools of Edmonton upon a sound and systematic basis.

Note.—The committee's report was discussed at the February and March regular monthly meetings and finally amended and unanimously adopted by the association at a special meeting held March 6th. The above is therefore the report of the whole Association. By resolution of the Association the secretary was instructed to forward a copy to the School Board.
